Senior Safety A.J. Stamps

On the feeling of hunger for a winning season for Kentucky...

“By the way the season ended last year, and the way we we’re playing, we’re using that as motivation and that adds hunger to the hunger we already have to go out and prove to the world that we are capable of winning games and keep up as a team.”

On rebuilding after losing team leaders to the draft...

“Everyone should step up. We don’t necessarily pinpoint leaders, we want everyone to be a leader and for everyone to hold each other accountable for their own responsibilities. We try to make it where it’s not just one person that’s a leader. We try to make everyone hold each other accountable.”

On what it will take for Kentucky to become competitive in the SEC...

“Really, just being more disciplined is what it’s going to take. Making sure we’re doing all the things the right way, and not bypassing those things. And just bringing younger guys in, and showing film, and guiding them in the right direction. Letting them know that they could have an immediate impact this season. “
