Senior Running Back Nick Chubb

On his relationship with Sony Michel...

"There's a lot of balance to our relationship. He's really outgoing and I'm more of a quiet guy. He speaks for me and I hold it down for the both of us."

On Sony and his decision to come back to Georgia...

"Sony is the guy that can do it all. He can catch the ball, run the ball, block. I can do that as well. He does some things better than I do and I do some things better than he does. We just really balance each other out and it's a great way to play. We had both been talking and it made it so much easier to decide to come back when we found out we both wanted to come back and play our last year together."

On his injury two years ago...

"I can't think about that now. I just have to stay prayerful and work hard. I could get injured anytime whether it's in college or in the NFL. I just don't think about it."

On his competitive nature with Sony...

"We just really hold each other accountable and if he's not doing something to his full potential or I'm not we'll call each other out. He'll tell me, 'Nick step it up' and I get back into it. We're definitely competitive but we're also best friends so we just want to hold each other to a higher standard because we want the best for each other."

On Jacob Eason and Jake Fromm...

"I see these two guys competing and working hard. They push each other. I think Jacob needs to be pushed and Jake is hungry. They're both great quarterbacks and both could finish the job."
