

Tennessee Lady Vols

Tamari Key & Jordan Horston

Tamari Key

What does it mean to play for a program with such rich tradition like Tennessee?

"The legacy that Pat (Summitt) left was one of the reasons I came to Tennessee. It's not often that you go to women's basketball games and see the stands filled with fans. When I took my visit to Tennessee, I was looking around at a game and it hit me that the fanbase really loves women's basketball. That is so important to me, and I think it should be like that across the country. I am so glad that Pat was able to stamp that for others to follow in the future."

Jordan Horston

What does your team have to prove this year?

"We don't have anything to prove. We just want to do the best that we can and win a national championship. We want to win games. There's not any pressure because when there's pressure, things get complicated, so we don't want to look at it like that. We're going to take it one day at a time and get better whenever we can because we want to win at the end."